THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 23, 1859.

THE BUFFALO.

Mr. Horace Greeley in his last letter to the N. Y. Tribune, gives an interesting account of the immense herds of Buffalo encountered on his overland journey.

RISINGER'S CREEK, STATION No. 13, PIKE'S PEAK EXPRESS Co., May 31, 1859. I would rather not bore the public with Buffalo. I fully realise that the subject is not novel-that Irving and Cooper, and many others, have written fully and admirably upon it; and that the traveller's enthusiastic recital falls coldly on the ear of the distant, critical, unsympathizing reader. Yet I insist on writing once more on Buffalo, promising then to drop the subject, as we pass out of the range of the Buffalo before night. All day vesterday, they darkened the earth around us, often seeming to be drawn up like an army in battle array on the ridges and adown the slopes a mile or so south of us-often on the north as well .-They are rather shy of the little screeus of straggling timber on the creek bottomsdoubtless from their sore experience of Indians lurking therein to discharge arrows at them as they went down to drink. If they feed in the grass of the narrow valleys and ravines, they are careful to have a part of the herd on the ridges which overlook them, and with them the surrounding country for miles. And, when an alarm is given, they all rush furiously off in the direction which the leaders presume that of safety.

This is what gives us such excellent oppor tunities for regarding them to the best ad vantage. They are moving northward and are still mainly south of our track. Whenever alarmed they set off on their awkward but stiff canter to the herds still south, or to haunts with which they are comparatively familiar, and wherein they have hitherto found safety. Of course this sends those north of us across our way, often but a tew rods in front of us, even when they had started a mile away. Then a herd will commence running across a hundred rods ahead of us, and the whole blindly following their leader, we will be close upon them before the last will have cleared the track. Of course they sometimes stop and tack, or seeing us, sheer off and cross further ahead, or split into two lines, but the general impulse when alarmed is to follow blindly and at full speed, seeming not to inquire or to consider from what quarter danger is to be apprehended.

What strikes the stranger with most amazement is their immense numbers. I know a million is a great many, but I am confident we saw that number yesterday. Certainly, all we saw could not have stood on ten square miles of ground. Often, the country-for miles on either hand, seemed quite black with them. The soil is rich, and well matted with their favorite grass. Yet it is all (except a very little on the creek bottoms, near to timber) eaten down like overtaxed sheep-pasture in a dry August. Consider that we have traversed more than one hundred miles in width since we first struck them, and that for most of this distance the Buffalo have been constantly in sight; and that they continue for some twenty-five miles further on-this being the breadth of their present range, which has a length of perhaps a thousand miles, and you have some approach to an idea of their countless millions. I doubt whether the domesticated horned cattle of the United States equal the numbers, while they must fall considerably short in weight of these

I shall pass lightly over the hunting exploits of our party. A good many shots have been fired, of course not by me; even were I in the habit of making war on wild Nature's child less creatures. If they were scarce, I might comprehend the idea of hunting them for ic 13 JOHN H. PARROTT. comprehend the idea of hunting them for sport; here, they are so abundant that you might as well hunt your neighbors geese .-And, while there have been several shots fired by our party at point-blank distances, I have reason for my hope that no Buffalo has experienced any personal inconvenience therefrom. For this impunity, the foulness of the rifle has had to answer in part; the greenness of the sportsmen is perhaps equally answerable for it. But then we have had no horse or mule out of our regular teams, and the caudid will admit that a coach andfour is not precisely the fittest turn-out for a

I write in the station tent (having been driven from our wagon by the operation of greasing its wheels, which was found to interfere with the steadiness of my hastily-improvised table.) with the buffalo visible on the ridges south and every way but north of us. They were very close down to us at daylight and so till the increasing light revealed distinctly our position, since which they have kept a respectful distance. But a party of our drivers, who went back seven miles on mules last evening, to help our rear wagon out of a gully in which it had mired and stuck fast, from which expedition they returned at midnight, report that they found the road absolutely dangerous with the crowds of Buffalo feeding on either side and running across it-that the night being quite dark, they were often in great danger of being run over and run down by the headlong brutes. They were obliged to stand still for minutes, and fire their revolvers right and left, to save their lives and their mules.

The superintendent of this division, Mr. Fuller, had a narrow escape day before yesterday. He was riding his mule along our road, utterly unconscious of danger, when a herd of Buffalo north of the road were stampeded by an emigrant train and set off full gallop in a south-westerly direction, as usual. A slight ridge hid them from Mr. F.'s sight till their leader came full tilt against his mule, knocking him down and going over him at full speed. Mr. F. ot course fell with the dying mule, and I presume lay very snug by his side while the buffaloes made a clear sweep over the concern-he firing his revolver rapidly, and thus inducing many of the herd to sheer off on one side or the other. He rose stunned and bruised, but still able to make his way to the station with an increased respect for buffalo, I fancy, and a disposition to give them a reasonably wide berth hereafter. But he has gone out this morning in quest of the mired coach, and our waiting for his return gives me this chance to write without encroaching on the hours due

Two nights ago, an immense herd came down upon a party of Pike's Peakers camped just across the creek from this station, and (it being dark) were with difficulty prevented from stampeding tents, cattle, and people. Some fifty shots were fired into them before they could be turned. And now, our stationmaster has just taken his gun to scare them off so as to save our mules from a stampede.

LINDEN WHISKEY.—This WHISKEY is made in the old fashioned copper still, by double distillation, just beyond the summit of the Blue Ridge, in Warren county, Va., near the line of Fauquier, where the softness and purity of the mounquier, where the softness and purity of the mountain spring water, and the quality of the rye, on-stitute important elements in making the Whiskey for which this locality has been long celebrated. It is perfectly pure, beyond all doubt, being made exclusively of ryc. hops, and bariey-malt, with the utmost care. The quantity made is limited, and bought principally for private use, by gentlemen compositions in the surrounding counties, who are critically nice in laying by a stock for improvement. A small consignment has lately been made to MARSHALL & WARD, of Alexandria; or it can be procured direct, through correspondence with DR. FISHER, of Linden, Warren County, Va. oct 25-entf

POR SALE—My farm in Fauquier county, con-taining by a recent survey. FOUR HUN-DRED AND FORTY-SIX ACRES and 29 poles This land lies on the Rappahannock river, about a quarter of a mile from the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and in an excellent neighborhood. There are on it, a very convenient DWFLLING HOUSE, spacious barn, and other out houses, all in good repair. A never failing spring of pure water, is within forty yards of the house-ice-house, and ice pond, as near. The fields not in cultivation, are well set in grass, and taking into view its close proximity to the Railroad, Post Office, Grist Mill (a mile off,) and other advantages, this farm may be safely recommended as very desirable property. Any one wishing to see the said farm will be shown it by Mr. H. T. Embry on the place.

SOMBRERO GUANO.

IN calling the attention of the public to this val-uable and recently discovered deposit of this tertilizing article, we will merely state, that like all other phosphatic GUANOS, its most valuable constituent is phosphoric acid, or bone phosphate of lime; and that its mercantile value, as compared with other GUANOS of its kind, may be easily defore, to give the public a thorough knowledge of what SOMBRERO GUANO does contain, we beg to refer to the following list of eminent chemists in different parts of the world, who have analyzed different cargoes, from average samples taken in the following from a verage sample taken in the verage sample taken in th themselves from the cargoes just as they arrive from the island, without drying or selection of specimens for analyzation. Each analysis will be exhibited, if required, under the original signature

Of phosphoric acid, estimated as equivalent to Of phosphoric acid, estimated phosphate of lime, it is found to contain— Piggot, Baltimore. of 1st sample, 89.60 Hayes, Boston, Reese, Baltimore, 85.14 72.04

Thus proving that the value of this GUANO is not determined by a SELECTED CHEMIST, or SELEC-TED SPECIMENS, OF EVER SELECTED CARGOES, but an average of the importations just as they arrive, and just as they are offered to the public for sale. And for a like array of eminent authority, promiscuously obtained from promiscuous cargoes, in different parts of the world, we challenge a comparison with any phosphatic QUANO now for sale. mh 16-eotf
